FRANCE AFLAME OVER GOVERNMENT ATTITUDE IN CHURCH CRISIS

Permission to Hold Services as "Public Meetings" Granted in Petition of Laymen, but Country Is Stred by Expulsion of Papal Nuncio.

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Through the intervention of two Catholic laymen who asked for permission to hold religious services under the "public meeting" provision of the law, which the Pope has condemned, the crisis in France which marks the separation of Church and State has been averted one day.

By the action of these two men, M. Martinet, an editor, and Felix Robin, a citizen of Paris, public worship may be held legally in the churches to-morrow.

WHOLE COUNTRY AROUSED.

Notwithstanding this day of grace granted by the government, the whole country is stirred to a high pitch of excitement over the situation, and the feeling on both sides of the controversy is growing hourly more bitterly determined.

Under the public meetings law of 1881 it is necessary for the members of the Catholic church to form associations and get permission from the government to hold services. The church authorities have declared their firm intention of never been profiting by this decision.

The request of the two men for permission to hold meetings under this law was made. It is believed, with the hope that some neutral ground might be found during the delay upon which an adjustment of the matter might be reached.

The feeling of the church people has reached almost fever heat, increasing in intensity since the expulsion from France yesterday of Mgr. Montagnini, secretary of the papal nunciature of Paris.

Prosecutions Begun.

Prosecutions have been begun against the Ultramontane abbes of the churches of St. Pierre du Gros Caillou, St. Augustin and St. Roch, where the greatest resistance to the taking of the inventories occurred, and it has been decided to immediately take over the buildings belonging to the ecclesiastics, stop the pensions of the clergy, compel aspirants to the priesthood to fulfill their military obligations and, if necessary, treat the clergy as objects of a foreign power.

The reception of Premier Clemenceau's speech in the Chamber of Deputies last night, also, shows that he has Parliament at his back.

The Figaro to-day says that Cardinal Richard, archbishop of Paris, at first declined to approve of M. Robin's action, but that later he changed his mind. This application, whether it is approved or disapproved by the clergy, will legalize the holding of religious services and render unnecessary any proceedings against parish priests or vicars to-morrow.

The papers seized at the papal nunciature yesterday placed in the government's hands important evidence which may prove very embarrassing to the Vatican if open use takes place.

They include, besides all the diplomatic correspondence exchanged before the rupture with the Vatican, secret instructions from Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, a mass of letters from prelates all over the world, and letters in the handwriting of deputies of the Right party.

Cardinal Richards has accepted the temporary hospitality of M. Denys Cochin, a Conservative member of the Chamber of Deputies from one of the Paris districts.

The Catholic seminaries at Bordeaux, Nemour and Saint Brieux were evacuated to-day.

Gillette Sent to Death House at Auburn
MOTHER COLLAPSES

Pathetic Scene as Condemned Slayer of Grace Brown Leaves Herkimer Jail.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Chester Gillette, sentenced to the electric chair for the murder at Big Moose Lake of his sweetheart, Grace Brown, was to-day taken handcuffed from the jail at this place to Auburn prison, where the death cell awaits him.

A dramatic parting between the young man and his mother, which resulted in her collapse, took place at the jail. Crying "My boy, oh, my boy!" the mother, who had shown such a brave spirit since her arrival here from her home in Denver, sobbed as though her heart were broken.

Ate Breakfast with Son.

Mrs. Gillette knew last evening that Chester would be taken to Auburn on the 10:24 train to-day and arranged to eat breakfast with him in his cell and spend the early morning hours with him. At Gillette's urgent request, his mother did not go with him from the jail. She is to follow him to Auburn to-morrow and will then find a place to stay near him so that she may visit him as often as the prison regulations will permit.

Mrs. Gillette went to the old jail early, and promptly at 8 o'clock the morning meal was served to mother and son in the cell.

Mrs. Gillette was plainly affected, and the wonderful nerve she has shown all along, and which it seemed must give way sooner or later, was plainly all that was supporting her. She tried bravely to cheer her son by conversation, but as the time drew near to part from him her woman's heart gave way to grief, and with a cry of "Oh, my boy, my boy," she burst into a paroxysm of tears and rushed from the cell. Her sobbing was pitiful.

Chester remained calm with an effort. "Don't cry, mother," he said. "I will see you again to-morrow."

But Mrs. Gillette was shaking as though with ague in her grief, and had to be led away by a keeper.

TOOK LEAVE OF HER BOY.

In a bedroom of the sheriff's house, connected directly with the prison, she calmed herself bravely, and in a quarter of an hour was quite herself again.

Then she returned to the cell and took a more composed leave of her boy.

Gillette was taken from the jail to the railroad station handcuffed to Deputy Sheriff Klock. The short journey to the depot was made in an ancient bus belonging to one of the hotels.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 12.—Powerful drugs are being used by the trainers to stimulate the six-day bicycle riders who are showing indications of collapse from the effects of the exhausting contest.

Many of the riders are hollow-eyed and exhausted from the constant riding and scarcely to-day strychnine was injected with hypodermic needles to relieve a rider who fell from his wheel after a hard sprint.

Tremendous betting to gain a lap by members of the twelve teams who are tied for first place, and by Walthour and Bedell, who are one lap behind, is the cause of the depressed physical condition of the riders.

All Night Crowd.

Ten thousand persons remained in the garden all night to watch the race, which was a series of mad dashes to capture the lead. George Schley, a stockbroker, early to-day offered $500 to the rider who would gain a lap. A sporting man offered an additional $250. Spurred by an offer of $750 to steal a lap, the riders redoubled their

WANT LAW FOR WARMER CARS

Legislation which will tend to insure the better heating of street railway cars will be demanded at the coming session at the State House. As the law stands now the enforcement of the provision relating to the heating of cars is left to the police, who, so far as the public knows, have never taken any action in the matter.

John W. Carter of Winchester to-day filed a bill with the clerk of the House providing that the responsibility for the enforcement of this law be taken from the police and left with the railroad commissioners.

USED DYNAMITE TO CHECK WAREHAM FIRE

TWO BLOCKS DESTROYED AND DAMAGE OF $75,000 BY FLAMES.

Special to the Boston American.

WAREHAM, Dec. 12.—In a $75,000 fire which destroyed two business blocks and four residences, the paintist $25,000 house of A. D. Makepeace, the "Cranberry King," was dynamited to prevent the flames from sweeping the whole business section of the town.

The flames, which started in the Boston Meat and Produce Company's building during the night from an overheated chimney, were swept toward the centre of the business section by a high wind, and it looked as though the town's best buildings were doomed. Nearby towns were called upon for assistance.

With no protection against fire except an old-fashioned tub, people of the town worked bucket brigades and helped the volunteer men.

Help was summoned from New Bedford, Onset, Tremont and Buzzards Bay. None of these fire fighters had a steam engine, however, except New Bedford, which arrived too late.

The fire destroyed Benjamin Waters's there it worked along to Benjamin Waters' dining store, burning out the telephone exchange and crippling the local service. Next came the home of Dr. Charles E. Morse, medical examiner for southern Massachusetts.

The old lawyer estate went next, and then, despite the use of dynamite, the flames jumped to the new residence of A. D. Makepeace. This was the costliest building of all, being built a short time ago at an expense of $25,000.

In the telephone office William Nickerson, the night operator, worked over the wires as long as he could, notifying towns around. He was forced out by the smoke. His parting message was to Middleboro, where he connected with Gordon Ellis at central, and announced, "I guess I'll go. The fire is coming up the stairs."

At 1:30 this morning the fire was out. Those burned out of their homes are being cared for by neighbors.

NEAR DEATH FROM GAS ASPHYXIATION

Emil LaFrame, employed until three weeks ago as cook in the Hotel Touraine, was nearly killed by gas asphyxiation in his room, at No. 362 Tremont street, first floor, to-day. The police accept his story that the matter was purely accidental.

Landlord Bantz, of the lodging house, smelled gas at 6:30 o'clock in the morning, broke into LaFrame's room and found him unconscious in bed.

ASSAILS ROOSEVELT ON JAPANESE ISSUES

SENATOR RAYNER OF MARYLAND DIRECTS SHAFTS OF SARCASM AT PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—With incisive sarcasm Isidor Rayner of Maryland, on the floor of the Senate this afternoon, assailed the President's attitude toward the controversy now raging on the Pacific Coast with reference to the segregation of the Japanese in the public schools of San Francisco.

The text of the Senator's speech was the resolution on the subject which he introduced at the opening of the present session of Congress.

Referring to the veiled threat in the President's message to use the military and naval forces of the United States, if necessary, Mr. Rayner said:

"It is very important that we should know whether the President has any power in the premises, because it is quite a serious matter, in view of the great calamity that has lately befallen the city of San Francisco, for the President to contemplate the bombarding of the city at this time, and to declare war against the boards of county school trustees of California if there is no justification or pretext upon which such ferocious proceedings can be undertaken.

"Exercising Many Functions."

"The President is exercising a great many functions—executive, legislative and judicial, lawful and unlawful, constitutional and unconstitutional. If he is possessed of the idea that he is the supervisor of all the public schools of the various States of the Union, we must either disabuse his mind of this fancy or we must let him know that we agree with him as to the omnipresence of his jurisdiction."

The Senator concluded that if the President could compel the people of San Francisco to admit Japanese to the schools, he could, with equal propriety, demand the admission of the negro children of Santo Domingo into the white schools of South Carolina.

"Treaty Would Be Void."

Senator Rayner laid down two propositions:

"First, That there is no provision whatever in the treaty with Japan that confers on the President any power whatever or gives to the government of Japan the privilege that it claims in connection with the public school system of California or any other State.

"Second, if there was such a provision in this treaty, or any other treaty conferring this right, the treaty would be void and without any authority upon the part of the United States to make it, and in violation of the constitution and the treaty-making power of the government."

URGE RAISE IN PAY FOR CITY EMPLOYES

With a request that the pay of the men in the sanitary department be increased from $2 per day to $2.25, a committee from the State Federation of Labor, consisting of Messrs. Mahoney, Cohen and Ward, called upon Mayor Fitzgerald to-day. The Mayor said that at present it was impossible to grant the request, but that he had the question of raising the pay of the city laborers under consideration, and that if the money could be possibly found next year he would see that it was done.

ARGUES CARUSO APPEAL TO-DAY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Before an audience composed of one woman and as many men as the room would hold, former Judge Dittenhoefer to-day argued Enrico Caruso's appeal from his conviction for disorderly conduct in the monkey house in Central Park and the imposing of a $10 fine upon him by Magistrate Baker. Caruso was not present. Mr. Dittenhoefer said that Deputy Police Commissioner Mc-Nut had been guilty of sharp practice and inexcusable conduct in his prosecution of the tenor in the magistrate's court. He complained that the conviction was illegal.

Stress was laid by the lawyer upon the failure of Mrs. Anna Graham to appear. The recorder reserved his decision.

JAIL FOR SHEDD AND TRAFTON

John W. Trafton and James A. Shedd, Custom House officials convicted of conspiracy, must serve jail sentences of two months each, as a result of a decision handed down by Judge Dodge of the United States District Court here to-day, denying the men a new trial. The conspiracy charged is connected with importations by the Gingham Manufacturing Company, which, with the firm of Simon Stengel Grunsberg and Simon Burman, members of the Glasgow firm, who were also convicted, declaring that Trafton and Shedd were in collusion with them, and that false confessions that new trials were asked.

FINE PEDLER FOR DELAYING FUNERAL

The second prosecution in Boston during the past ten years of a case of alleged obstruction of a funeral procession was made to-day in the Municipal Criminal court, when Joseph Stramgiff, a peddler, of No. 183 East Third street, Cambridge, was fined $10 for driving into a funeral procession on Hanover street, near Washington street, yesterday, in such a manner as to hold it up for fifteen or twenty minutes.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER HELD ON CHARGE OF STEALING RINGS

Mrs. Mary A. and Miss Sarah J. Ball of Everett Refuse to Pay Fines.

Insist They Are Innocent of Larceny of Former Friend's Gems.

Charged with the larceny of two rings from their friend, Mrs. Katherine Roberts, a prominent society woman, Mrs. Mary A. Ball and her daughter, Sarah J. Ball, appeared in the Malden District Court to-day and entered a plea of not guilty.

The two accused women were fashionably dressed, and attracted a large crowd to the court room because of their social prominence and the allegations that have been made against them. Known widely, as all of the parties to the case are, the suit has proven a sensation.

When arraigned last week, after being caught in a trap that Mrs. Roberts says she set for the girl, Judge Bruce said, after fining the mother $50 and the girl $20:

"I will give you until December 12 to pay the fines or return the rings. I think you can produce the rings, and if you do I may make a different disposition of the case."

When the names of the two women were called to-day they rose to their feet and the charge was read. Asked if they were guilty or not guilty, both each pleaded "Not guilty."

Judge Bruce told them that the fine previously imposed would stand, and they appealed the case. Mrs. Ball was held in $200 bail and her daughter in $300 for trial. Bail was furnished and the two women left the court room.

Mrs. Roberts, who lives at No. 102 Harvard street, Everett, says that Mrs. Ball and her daughter called on her October 14, and after they left she missed a diamond ring valued at $50. On November 3 the girl called alone. Mrs. Roberts says, and she left a rhinestone ring in a room where the girl was, to see if anything happened. The ring disappeared.

SUBSIDY BILL UP TO-MORROW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—A tentative agreement has been reached by House leaders on the Ship Subsidy bill. It will be taken up by the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries to-morrow, when, it is expected, a favorable report will be made. The basis of agreement is on the extension of subvention only to Oriental and South American lines. No vessels will be eligible to bounty except those carrying mails. About sixteen lines will receive assistance. The minimum expenditure per year on account of the subsidy is estimated at $1,800,000 and the maximum amounts at $3,220,000.

The Drink Habit.

The craving for alcohol is as unnatural as it is ruinous in its effects. The thirst for liquor is an abnormal appetite, and is the result of a diseased condition of the blood. Irregular habits, partaking in excess of rich or meritorious food, nervous strain, that banishes appetite, are the chief causes of inflamed blood, which parches the lips and tongue, thereby creating a desire for drink. Persons who have overstepped the limit in drinking will find in Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound an excellent remedy to ward off the evils that naturally follow an overindulgence in stimulants. JEALOUSY IN BROWN TRAGEDY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Annie Adams, mother of Maude Adams, the actress, has telegraphed from New York to the hospital where former Senator Arthur Brown of Utah is lying at death's door as the result of being shot by Mrs. Anna Bradley, asking as to his condition. It is now asserted that Mrs. Adams was the innocent cause of the attack upon Brown, as a report, believed to have originated in Mrs. Bradley's disordered brain, that Mr. Brown had an engagement to marry Mrs. Adams in New York after his business in Washington was ended led to the shooting by the woman.

Mr. Brown's condition is serious and he is not expected to live the day out.

CRY FOR MEN TO WORK ON WATER FRONT

Many Big Freighters in Port and Longshoremen Are Scarce.

HUNDREDS MORE NEEDED

Help Wanted!

Any number of men who want work can get it in Boston this very minute. If they only go to the Water Front, along Atlantic avenue.

Never has there gone up such a cry for husky men who are not afraid of work. Never has there been so much work to do on the Water Front to-day.

There are thirteen big ocean-going steamships heavily laden with freight, in the port, and three more are due to-day. In addition hundreds of them to unload these big ships.

Trying to Find Men.

It's all but impossible to get longshoremen now, and those in charge of the ships which are rolling at their docks are hunting men to unload them. "Longshoremen who are idle are making plenty of money now, for they are all being worked overtime at the usual extra rate of pay demanded by their wage schedule.

Nine of the thirteen big vessels in the harbor are transatlantic liners, five in the general trade and two plying between the United States and South American ports. The oriental steamers are the Saxil, Mariposa and Lichtenfels from Calcutta, the Kilsyth of the Garter from China, Japan and India, and the St. George from Manilla.

Not an Idle Man There.

Bigger and busier Boston never looked the part more than it does to-day along the water front and at the piers where the big ships from the other side of the world are discharging their cargoes as fast as men can be found to do the work.

There isn't an idle man along the docks to-day, unless from personal preference.

MOVE TOWARD CO-OPERATION BY GRANGERS

Committee to Investigate System Appointed at State Convention.

The Massachusetts State Grange, the state branch of the big order of husbandry formed for mutual advantage throughout the country, took its first steps to-day toward seeking co-operative sale of farm products in this State and co-operative buying of farm necessities.

At the second day of the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Massachusetts State Grange to-day in Faneuil Hall, District Deputy N. A. Morse, ex-State Senator of Belchertown, offered the following resolution:

To Investigate Co-operate Plan.

"That the Massachusetts State Grange appoint a committee of twenty-five, to consist of the masters of the several Pomona granges of the State and four members-at-large, the latter to be appointed by the State master, carefully to canvass the situation as regards the order concerning not only co-operative selling of farm products, but also co-operative buying of farm necessities, the committee to report at the next annual session of the State grange."

This resolution was referred without debate to the committee on co-operation and will probably be carried when it is reported back for action.

State Grange Master C. H. Richardson is presiding at the convention, with 600 delegates present. The convention will close to-morrow.

On a resolution of District Deputy Morse a committee of three, consisting of District Deputy Morse, Past Master Warren Jewett of Worcester and ex-State Cattle Commissioner C. A. Dennis of Boston, to confer with the State Board of Health regarding the pure milk problem.

A resolution was referred to the "Good of the Order" Committee, calling for an amendment of the present "Old Home" week law, so that cities and towns could set their own day or days for observing Old Home week instead of having to abide by the period set by the State law.

C. A. Dennis of Pemgaid was appointed to the Executive Committee for three years.

A resolution by District Deputy Morse that agriculture be taught in the public schools was referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

BOY SAYS HE IS A FIREBUG

Fifteen-year-old Joseph D. Monahan walked into the East Cambridge police station to-day, and, according to the police, admitted having just set fire to a lounge in his home at No. 129 Thorndike street, East Cambridge, after a quarrel with his mother.

"I locked myself in the parlor, threw oil from the lamp on the lounge and set it afire. Then I jumped out of the window," was the story which the police and the lad told them. He was placed under arrest, and later was held in $500 bail until December 19, on charge of malicious by setting fire to a dwelling.

REUNITED BY TRAGEDY, WIFE NURSES HUSBAND SHOT BY BOY

FRANK W. TURNER

BOY CHAUFFEUR WHO SHOT RICH DOCTOR.

VICTIM OF CHAUFFEUR IMPROVING

Reconciliation Probable Between Dr. and Mrs. Ray at Chester, Vt.

Special to the Boston American.

CHESTER DEPOT, Vt., Dec. 12.—With the hope, it is believed, of effecting a reconciliation with her husband, Mrs. Charles W. Ray, wife of the wealthy physician who was shot by his chauffeur, Frank L. Turner, who is said to have left her home early yesterday, has returned to her husband's bedside and, with the assistance of a professional nurse to-day, has brought from Keene, is caring for her husband.

Dr. Ray's injuries are not as serious as was at first believed, and unless blood poisoning sets in he will undoubtedly recover. The scandal which has arisen over the shooting has convulsed Windsor County and no other topic is discussed on highways and byways.

Many townspeople have expressed displeasure that Mrs. Ray's charges of unfaithfulness against her husband will not be repeated publicly, and that, in order to hush up the sensation, which is daily increasing, young Turner may never be brought to trial.

Believes in Wife.

Under no circumstances can Turner be brought to court until next May, and Dr. Ray will not be able to leave his bed before the adjournment of the December term of court, which is now in session in Woodstock.

Although there are persistent rumors of an extraordinarily warm friendship between Mrs. Ray and young Turner, there are none who will admit that Dr. Ray will seriously consider the possibility of such a condition.

Mrs. Ray was noticed during last Summer taking long rides in her husband's automobile, with young Turner as chauffeur, but Dr. Ray spurns all suggestion of indiscretion on the part of his wife and he is quoted as saying to a friend a few hours after the shooting: "My wife did not act wisely in calling in Turner, but she's all right, you know."

Ian Ellison is still confined to her bed at her father's home and denies herself to all her old friends who have called to assure her of their belief in her innocence. There was a demonstration in front of Dr. Ray's home last night, when a number of the friends of the doctor called to pay their respects. The unfortunate nurse came to the door, however, and firmly denied admittance to all.

To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter she said: "I must not discuss the unfortunate affair. Out of professional duty, I will say Dr. Ray I can say nothing. I will say that Mrs. Ray is in Chester to-night, and as far as I have been able to determine the relations between the doctor and his wife are—er—cordial," finished she, hesitatingly.

IS ACCUSED OF ATTACKING FOREMAN

Frank Bojladun, alias Frank Bolinwater, was to-day arraigned before Judge Grover of the Dedham District Court, charged with assault upon Foreman Benjamin North at the Merchants' Dye Works, East Dedham. Bojladun pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until December 20.

It is alleged that when Bojladun was discharged at the dye works yesterday he struck North with a bar of iron, inflicting a severe scalp wound.

MARCONI, WIRELESS TELEGRAPH INVENTOR, CONVERT TO SPIRITUALISM, PLANS TO TALK WITH THE DEAD

MARCONI WORKING HIS WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY INSTRUMENT.

Signor Guglielmo Marconi, the electrical wizard who has succeeded in sending messages across the Atlantic Ocean without a wire, has according to a dispatch from Rome, become a Spiritualist and believes that he can receive messages from the dead.

That the young inventor, who has been able to accomplish so much scientifically in a way that to a layman appears to border on the occult, has entered the spirit realm of research is astonishing news to his friends. It is declared that his conversion to this belief was effected by Princess D'Annoi del Drago of Rome, who is a firm believer in spiritualism and a remarkable medium.

"Lately I began to hold seances in my palace," said the princess to a newspaper correspondent.

"I met Signor Marconi a few weeks ago at an entertainment. I spoke to him about spiritualism. He said he did not believe in it, so I invited him to come to my house and assist in a seance.

"He came last Tuesday. There were only myself, Marconi and the medium. We formed a chain around a small table and without telling all the phenomena we obtained it is sufficient to say that when Marconi left he was a convinced spiritualist and quite determined to study the subject scientifically."

Besides being brought before the world as a result of his amazing accomplishments in connection with wireless telegraphy, Marconi has figured in a romance in both this country and abroad. He was recently married in London to the Hon. Beatrice O'Brien, the beautiful daughter of the late Lord Inchiquin, K. P., and of Ethel, Lady Inchiquin.

The wedding was followed by a popular demonstration complimentary to the young couple in the street after the ceremony was performed. The best man was Alfonso Marconi, a brother of the young inventor. The bride was attended by the Hon. Maud and the Hon. Link O'Brien, the Hon. Marjorie Coke and Miss Ina Tweedale.

For a wedding present Marconi gave his bride a long sealskin coat, with a collar of silver fox, a high diamond crown, diamond ring, pearl brooch and a bicycle.

MILLIONAIRE HARTJE LOSES DIVORCE SUIT

Beautiful Wife of Pittsburg Paper Manufacturer Vindicated.

RETAINS HER CHILDREN

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 12.—Judge Robert S. Frazer to-day handed down a decision refusing Augustus Hartje, millionaire paper manufacturer, a divorce from his beautiful wife, Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, on charges of infidelity. The decision is a vindication for Mrs. Hartje.

By the decision, Mrs. Hartje is to retain possession of her two children, John Scott Hartje, and Mary Louise Hartje. She will also be enabled, providing an appeal is not taken, to press her suit for alimony from her husband.

Augustus Hartje filed a libel for divorce against his wife on October 17, 1905, naming Clifford Hoge, a negro coachman, and Thomas Madine, an Irish coachman. On October 25, the same year, Mrs. Hartje filed a libel against her husband for separation, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment.

The case came to trial in June of this year, and was productive of many sensations. Attorney J. Scott Ferguson was the principal counsel for Hartje, and for the wife D. T. Watson, an attorney of International fame, appeared.

Letters, which the defence alleged were forgeries, were exhibited as having been written by Mrs. Hartje to Madine. The negro, Hoge, was forced to confess that he had perjured himself.

The climax in the sensational case came on July 6, when warrants charging conspiracy were sworn out against Augustus Hartje, the plaintiff; John L. Welshons, President of the Farrar-Welshons Hardware Company, and Clifford Hoge, the negro coachman first named by Hartje. The specific charge against these men was conspiracy to destroy the name and reputation of Mrs. Hartje.

During the trial it was said that Andrew Carnegie, who had been associated with Mrs. Hartje's father in business many years ago, was interesting himself in the trial, that he had wired her to save no expense in clearing her name and that she could draw upon him in case she was in need of funds. Mrs. Hartje was the daughter of Thomas A. Scott, at one time President of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

THREE DEAD IN ONE FAMILY, 2 MORE ILL

Children of William John, Everett, Succumb to Diphtheria; Wife Now a Victim.

Three times within the past four days has death entered the home of William John, an iron worker, who lives at No. 25 Wilbur street, Everett. Three children, aged two, five and nine years, have succumbed to diphtheria, and now Mrs. John and a little daughter are critically ill of the same disease.

Until last evening the father had tried in vain to secure a nurse, and now he is worn out by the strain of the double task of caring for his loved ones, whom death has been removing. The first death entered the home on Saturday. On Monday the father went for the second time to the coroner's office and returned home to find that the third child had died.

Two of the children have so far escaped the contagion. In all twelve cases of diphtheria have been reported to the Board of Health in Everett. It is believed that a relentless epidemic will result, for effective measures to stamp out the disease have been taken.

2 WOMEN SAY THEY MARRIED THE SAME MAN

WORCESTER, Dec. 12.—Two women who claim to have been married to Charles H. Burt, once of Worcester, later of Millbury, and now, apparently, of parts unknown, appeared in the Superior Court here to-day before Judge Schofield, while one of them, who No. 2, caused the court to declare her marriage null and void. She is the mother of Burt's six-year-old child. Judge Schofield reserved decision.

Etta Alby of Dixon street, who became Etta Alby Burt in 1888, told the Court that almost immediately after her marriage to Burt in 1888 she was compelled to turn to her relatives for support. Burt remained with her for about two years, seldom doing anything for her maintenance. Then he went away, and for twelve years she had not heard from him until his marriage was called to her attention. "I had supposed him dead," she said.

The maiden name and the present address of wife No. 2, to-day's petitioner, did not come out in court. She married Burt in 1895, at Millbury.

HOLD DIAMOND ANNIVERSARY

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 12.—The Sisters of Mercy of St. Francis Xavier Convent, Broad street, are to-day celebrating the diamond jubilee of the order, commemorating seventy-five years of missionary work. Special morning services were held in the cathedral, at which Bishop Harkins and Rev. Austin Dowling presided. An entertainment will be held this evening at St. Xavier's, consisting of Aldrich's drama "Judith."

The order was founded at Dublin, Ireland, in 1821 by Mary Catherine McAuley, and several young women, who expected a home for young girls. In 1831 they took the vows of religion, and then instituted the religious order, whose girls and work have become so familiar to the people of Providence during the past half century.

CONGO LOBBY AT WORK AGAIN; DEFIES EXPOSE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Evidence was discovered to-day proving that, despite the exposure in the AMERICAN of the lobby established by the diplomatic agents of King Leopold to prevent action by the United States government on the Congo atrocities, the lobby is again at work, with the manifest purpose of staving off action at the present session of Congress for the purpose of ending the inhumanities.

The Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, a Boston minister, who is actively identified with the Congo Reform Association informed the AMERICAN correspondent that he had in his hands three days ago a letter from James Augustus Whitely, consul-general from Congo, to a United States Senator, urging the latter to use his influence to prevent any move on the part of the United States looking toward reform.

Mr. Johnson, as well as the Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Barbour, who also saw the letter, is prepared to make affidavit to the facts, if necessary.

That the lobby has resumed operations in defiance of all diplomatic law, is, however, not strange, in view of the attitude which the State Department has assumed toward the whole Congo affair.

The AMERICAN correspondent, to-day, called on Secretary of State Root, counsel for Thomas F. Ryan, Congo concessionaire, and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon, former partner of J. Pierpont Morgan.

He was informed at their office that they would refuse to discuss the Congo situation in any of its phases with a representative of the AMERICAN.

MISSING GIRL'S FATHER DYING

Mrs. John Skinner of No. 1423 Jackson street, Muncie, Ind., has asked the Boston newspapers and police to help her find her missing daughter, Mrs. Nellie Bennett. The young woman's father is dying and Mrs. Skinner says that if her daughter does not soon come home she will never see him alive.

CROCKER'S SONS ON STAND IN BRIBE TRIAL

George U., Edgar and Joseph P. Crocker, sons of the late Uriel H. Crocker, who left his fortune to Anna J. Fitz, his second wife and his former stenographer, went on the witness stand in the Supreme Court to-day and tended with much earnestness that they had authorized the payment of money to Matthew J. Killion of East Boston, and John W. Cronin, of Roxbury, who are being tried on the charge of having accepted money for their votes to break the Crocker will.

William J. Hartnett, now a fugitive from justice, is the man who is alleged by the prosecution to have paid Killion and Cronin for their votes. According to ex-Senator William Taylor, one of the defendant Killion confessed to him that he had received $200 and Cronin $150 for their votes.

Killion, a stone of the defendant Killion, testified that she had heard the conversation between Taylor and Killion over the telephone on Jan. 20 last, when the confession is alleged to have been made. They were in the dining room; she was in the kitchen. So far from having made any confession, said Miss Killion, her brother protested to Taylor that he had received no money for his vote.

Mrs. Margaret Cronin, wife of the defendant Cronin, similarly testified that she was present when Taylor had the alleged "confession" from her brother. Taylor's account of the conversation, she said, was wholly false. Taylor, she said, sought to gain admission from her brother that he had accepted a bribe for voting to break the Crocker will. Her brother told Taylor that he had never accepted a cent of money from any of the interested parties in the will contest.

Robert M. Morse and William P. Torrey, who were counsel for the Crocker sons in the will contest, admitted that they had employed William J. Hartnett to do some work for them, but emphatically denied that they had authorized or suggested to Hartnett that he bribe a jury.

George U. Crocker testified that Hartnett had called upon him three times in his office in the City Hall and tried to get money from him for "extraordinary expenses" incurred during the trial. Was Mr. Crocker advised to give Hartnett the money, Hartnett said.

Unless this outstanding claim of $1[illegible] is settled, I'll tell some disagreeable things about this case."

And what did you say to that?" asked Lawyer Dietrich of counsel for the defense.

"I told him to get out of my office," answered witness, "which he did."

POULTNEY BIGELOW'S PRETTY DAUGHTER WED TO BOSTON MAN

DAUGHTER OF POULTNEY BIGELOW, BRIDE OF BOSTON MAN IN LONDON

Becomes Bride of James F. A. Clark in London Church To-day.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The wedding of Miss Edith Evelyn Bigelow, the beautiful and New York, London and Berlin, and James Francis Aloysius Clark of Boston, Mass., took place to-day in the presence of distinguished persons from two continents, at All Souls' Church, Langham place.

International in its importance because of the prominence and social standing of the contracting parties and of their families was the ceremony. The bride, who made a memorable impression in her beautiful wedding gown, was given away by Captain Jaffrey, her English cousin. Count Reginald Wedel, who was in business in New York with Mr. Clark some years ago, was the best man.

Distinguished Bridesmaids.

The bridesmaids, who were all charmingly arrayed, were Miss Belle Sessoni; Miss Evelyn Thornhill, granddaughter of Lady Russell; Miss Georgia Appleton, daughter of the late New York publisher; Miss Lillian Farnham, a niece of Lord Edward Pelham Clinton; Miss Evelyn Dillon, niece of Lord Dillon; Miss Lettice Lawrence, niece of Lord Lawrence; Miss White, the daughter of Percy White, the novelist, and Miss Florence Padelford.

Brilliant Gathering of Distinguished Guests at the Ceremony.

The fact that Miss Bigelow and Mr. Clark were engaged had been kept a profound secret even in society circles as long as possible, because of the granting of a divorce to Mr. Clark from his first wife.

It was not until the preparations for the wedding became known that the fact of the engagement was revealed to the Boston and New York friends of Miss Bigelow and Mr. Clark.

Former Wife in Boston.

Mr. Clark has established his former wife in a fine residence he formerly owned in Boston and which he gave her as part of the terms of final separation and divorce. The money settlement makes her independent for life.

Miss Bigelow is considered to be one of the most beautiful women in the American social set in London. She was presented at court last May.

Strength Comes

Not From What You Eat, But From What You Digest.

Most people eat most foods without discrimination—it matters little what. Few stop to think what that food does for them. This is the first turn on the road to dyspepsia. Reckless disregard of the proper choice of foods, rapid eating and improper mastication, are the unquestioned causes of all stomach disorders from the slight ache to the malignant cancer.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison throughout the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of poison. What else can be expected? If the food lies in the stomach, if the system is constipated, fermentation is the natural outcome. It shows itself in sour watery risings, belchings, heartburn and painful breathing.

There is only one way to relieve this condition. If the stomach refuses to digest your food put something into it that will. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are nothing but digestives. They are not a medicine. They work when the stomach will not.

Each tablet contains enough pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other digestive elements to reduce 2,000 grains of ordinary food to the proper consistency for assimilation into the blood.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are absolutely pure. There is nothing harmful in them as shown in their endorsement by 40,000 physicians in the United States and Canada.

Ask your family physician his opinion of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and if he is honest toward you he will state positively that they will cure your stomach trouble whatever it may be, unless you have waited too long and have allowed your disorder to develop into cancer.

Act today and begin to end your suffering. A free trial package will be sent to your address upon request. The 50 cent size exchanges are for sale at your druggist's. F. A. Stuart Co., 57 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

FIRST WEDDING IN OLD CHURCH

HAVERHILL, Dec. 12.—The first wedding ever celebrated in Grace Church, which was built nearly forty years ago, occurred last night and, as it to make up for lost time, it was a double one. Miss Edith Fellows was married to James E. Hall and her sister, Miss Hester Fellows, became the wife of Herbert Whittemore. After their wedding trips the two families will live in a double house on Main street.

LATER TRAINS TO FOLLOW APPROVAL OF 12 O'CLOCK LAW

Officials of the Boston & Albany, the Boston & Maine and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroads, in interviews to-day with the BOSTON AMERICAN declared that as a result of the passage of the midnight law, if the public demanded it, extra trains would be run until late at night for the accommodation of suburban patrons who dine late at the hotels.

This will mean that trains will be run to the suburbs for at least an hour later than at present, the exact last train now leaving at from 11:15 to 11:32. With the hotels open until 12 o'clock, out of town people will have an opportunity to dine before going home and the railroads will be ready to supply them with trains to take them there.

A. Burt, General Passenger Agent of the Boston & Maine, said: "While this is a matter which the public has not been given very serious thought, if the result of the law has the effect of keeping the people in town later than heretofore, unquestionably we would be inclined to revise our service to accommodate them."

A. S. Hanson, General Passenger Agent of the Boston & Albany Railroad, said: "We haven't discussed the matter, but in all probability we will take action when the time comes."

F. T. Curtis, Vice President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, said: "The matter has not been considered. If the public demands extra trains late at night as a result of the 12 o'clock law, the extra trains will be put on."

HIGGINS PICKS YOUNG MEN FOR HIS STAFF

Attmore A. Tucker to Be Chief of Governor-Elect's Military Advisers.

BRODERICK, SECRETARY

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 12.—Governor-elect Higgins to-day made official announcement of the men who will comprise his personal staff during his term of office, which begins on the first day of the new year. He also announced the name of his executive secretary.

The position of secretary to the Governor will be filled by Joseph V. Broderick of Cumberland, and the gentlemen who will compose the staff are Attmore A. Tucker of South Kingstown, chief of staff; James A. Ryan of Lincoln, Irving O. Hunt of Providence, James P. Murphy of Pawtucket, Harvey A. Baker of Providence and Dr. John C. Archambault of Warwick.

The Governor-elect has made his selection with a view to having all sections of the State represented on his staff, and it is generally agreed that he has succeeded admirably.

All of the appointees are young men, the average age being about thirty years, and in selecting the members of the staff the new executive has, among other things, considered the matter of personal physique. The result is that on such occasions as he appears, accompanied by his full staff, he will be surrounded by men who will present ally adorn the brilliant uniforms which precedent has established as the only proper thing for the members of the staff of the Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the land and naval forces of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, for that is the official title of the executive of the smallest State in the Union.

GAVE NAMES OF BOGUS VOTERS; JAIL SENTENCE

James Rogan Found Guilty of Colonization Scheme Appeals From Decree.

Charged with a crime against the election laws, in having furnished to the police from No. 23 Milford street in Ward 8 at the South End the names of five alleged voters who, upon investigation, were found to be non-resident, and in some cases apparently non-existent, James Rogan of No. 9 Union Park street was found guilty today by Judge Kelly in the first session of the Municipal Court and sentenced to six months' imprisonment at the House of Correction. Rogan appealed, furnishing $200 cash bail.

The case had its inception in an anonymous letter that came to Police Commissioner O'Meara, complaining that a dozen fictitious voters had been registered from No. 23 Milford street. Sergeant Gell and Policeman Nellily of East Dedham street found seven of the men living at the house, but could not find Stephen Cunningham, Carl J. Fleming, Lawrence M. Hurley, Walter R. Birdell or Joseph C. Fossa.

Birdell, a boy of 23 years, turned up for to-day's hearing. He testified that his name had been improperly used, although he had been a visitor at the house. Four of the questioned names were voted upon at the primaries and three at the State election.

The anonymous complaint is supposed to have sprung from the bitter ward fight of the Donovan-Bowen forces against Garland and others.

SWEEPING VICTORY FOR 12 O'CLOCK LAW IN BOSTON

Ellis and Gallivan Win in School Board and Street Commissioner Contests.

Republicans Elect Six Out of Thirteen Candidates for Board of Aldermen.

As a result of the municipal election yesterday liquor will within a few days be sold in thirty hotels in the city up to midnight, instead of the hours being closed as eleven o'clock as they have since the famous "sealedon" law went into effect.

By a plurality of 18,000 votes in a total of 61,000 cast the citizens of Boston decided in favor of the 12 o'clock law, while the plurality in favor of licensing the liquor traffic carried by 25,000. As soon as the Board of Election Commissioners certify to the returns the Excise Board will proceed to select the hotels that will be allowed to keep their bars open until midnight.

Locally, the fight over the members of the School Board, because of the friction that was caused in the campaign, led in point of interest. David A. Ellis was re-elected over Mrs. Julia Duff by a plurality of 8,078. Mayor Fitzgerald, who backed Mr. Ellis, said that the people were to be congratulated over the result, while Mrs. Duff conceded the defeat, under the circumstances, is a victory.

Seven Democratic Aldermen.

The Democrats hold their present representation of seven in the Board of Aldermen, enough to control the board and elect a Democratic chairman, but two votes short of the two-thirds vote required to pass loan bills. Mayor Fitzgerald will doubtless have the same trouble in getting enough Republican votes to pass which he may desire. The new members in next year's board will be Ralph Lenry and Woods, Democrats, and Curtis Hendricks. Clark was a member of the board of 1905.

In the Common Council next year there will be forty-eight Democrats and twenty-seven Republicans, a gain of two for the majority party. In Ward 1, East Boston, a Republican ward, the Democrats hold the seat carried last year by Councilman Sexton. Democrat, T. E. Sorenson, a Democrat, being elected with two Republicans.

In Ward 12 the Democrats also succeeded in electing one councilman, G. T. Daly carrying two votes ahead of A. D. McLennan, the second Republican elected. W. F. Nichols, the third Republican nominee, falling by the wayside, he running thirty votes behind McLennan. Out in Ward 25, Brighton, one Democrat also succeeded in getting in with two Republicans. In the council the Democrats will now lack but two votes of the two-thirds necessary for absolute control of that body.

Gallivan's Plurality, 16,000.

Street Commissioner James A. Gallivan was re-elected by a plurality of more than 16,000. His election was conceded before the votes were cast, but his remarkably large vote was not expected in an off year. Michael F. Shay, who was a candidate for the Board of Aldermen on the Democratic ticket, and over whose candidacy there was a division of sentiment among the union painters of the city, most of them claimed that he had been "unfair" in the employment of union men, was defeated, receiving only 10,870 votes, while the vote of the lowest man elected was 16,045.

Edward M. Richardson, who as a candidate for the council last year promised to vote for a municipal lighting plant but failed to do so, was a candidate for the board this year, but received less than 4,000 votes.

One of the most noticeable features of the election was Mrs. Duff carrying nearly all the Democratic wards. Ward 5, the Dorchester district, and Ward 8, Donovan's ward, went for Ellis. Ward 17, where George Fitzgerald, brother of the Mayor, is in control, Ellis won out, by less than 100. This is what Mrs. Duff had to say upon the result:

Calls Defeat a Victory.

"Truly, my defeat is a victory. Politically, it has demonstrated that the Mayor of Boston cannot wield the political power he thought he could. Socially, it has shown that the influence of the home and the mothers' counsel is to be the potent dominating influence in Boston.

"My splendid vote, with a Democratic machine, a Republican machine, a Public School Association machine, and millions of money against me, means that the Democratic party is dead. It will now be useless for any of the five members comprising the Boston School Board.

"I wish to thank most heartily the thousands who have expressed their confidence in me."

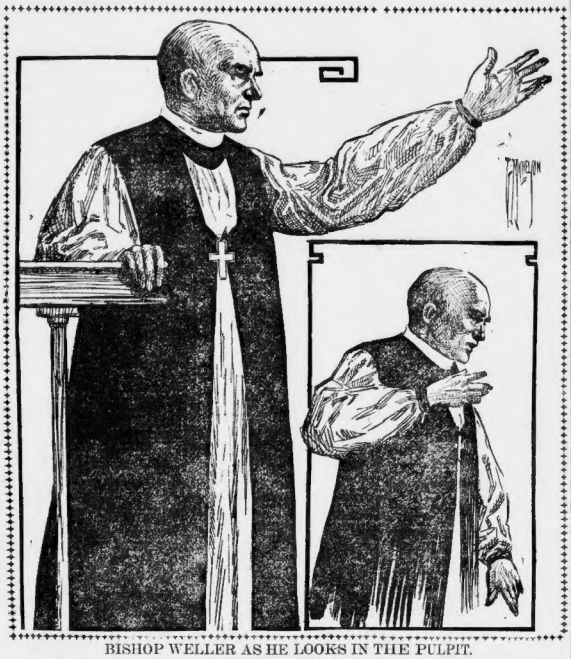
There is much talk in the world of the magnitude of planets, the greatness of creation. Do you know of anything bigger than man? I don't.

Put into one side of the scales all science, all planets, all space. In the other side put the smallest and youngest baby in the world. There is nothing in the universe bigger than a baby. If God doesn't care for a baby, what is He doing taking care of planets?—BISHOP WELLER.

Bishop Weller Gives Younger Generation Best Basis of Faith



BISHOP WELLER AS HE LOOKS IN THE PULPIT.

"Christ Is God Incarnate: Believe That and Rest Is Easy," He Says.

By Eleanor Ames.

"CHRIST is God incarnate. If you believe that, all the rest is easy," declared Bishop Weller yesterday afternoon at the second of his conferences held daily in St. Paul's Church.

"Christ took the human form, the human spirit, the human nature, but he who ruled was divine."

It was the close of a plain, straightforward simple talk on "The Incarnation," the second of a series arranged by a committee of twenty-eight society women of Boston, who have been led to this step by the gravity of the attitude of the younger generation, who by argument seek to undermine the faith of the Episcopal church in which they have been reared.

"There is much talk in the world of science," said the bishop. "Talk of the magnitude of planets, the greatness of creation.

"Do you know of anything bigger than man? I don't.

"Put into one side of the scales all science, all planets, all space. In the other side put the smallest and youngest baby in the world.

"Can you doubt which side will have the weight of balance?

"If God doesn't care for a baby, what is he doing taking care of planets?

"There is nothing in the universe bigger than a baby.

"You may talk of evolution. You may say that since the monkey and man stood side by side that the monkey did not grasp the opportunities offered and therefore became a man instead of a monk.

"Was it only place given as the result of perfected civilization. But where do you stop in your science of evolution? Man is the biggest thing in the universe, but if you stop there you have a chain swinging in the air, and such a chain is not stable. If anything is climbing it's going somewhere.

"Blood comes into humanity to lift it up to the throne."

Bishop Weller is tall and spare and strong-muscled and strong.

His is alive with nervous energy; vital with earnestness.

He rises on his toes; he leans forward to his people; his hands, his face, his eyes, all aid his clear, ringing voice in emphasizing the meaning of his words.

He has a long, narrow, square-jawed, ascetic face.

His dark eyes burn like living coals, deep set beneath his heavy black brows.

He suggests wiry endurance, the power to battle and to conquer; the willingness and capacity for sacrifice.

In the beginning of his talk he spoke of the marvelous character of Christ, which contained every virtue, every beauty.

But he did not accept Christ simply as the perfect man. Such an assertion, he declared, would make complete the entire understanding of the Catholic faith.

Only when God was considered as perfect love, perfect power, perfect understanding, and that Christ was God in human form, could all else be made clear.

"I am somewhat old-fashioned," he continued, "and I read my Bible as my mother read it before me.

"Man knows much that he can't understand, and the fool that he knows he can't explain.

The church was well filled, the proportion of women over men being twenty to one.

At the close of the talk, Bishop Weller came down from the chancel to meet all who wished advice or who had questions, and fully fifty persons remained to see him.

Today he speaks again at 4 o'clock, his subject being "The Atonement."

FOR CITY OWNERSHIP IF PEOPLE WANT IT

MAYOR-ELECT WARDWELL OF CAMBRIDGE FORECASTS HIS POLICY AS EXECUTIVE.

"If the city government of Cambridge and the people of Cambridge want a municipal ice plant or a municipal gas plant, or both of them, Mayor-elect Walter C. Wardwell, non-partisan, said this afternoon to the BOSTON AMERICAN, "they certainly will not find me standing in the way. That is my position on municipal ownership."

Deputy Sheriff Wardwell was elected Mayor of Cambridge yesterday by a majority of 478 over Mayor Charles A. Thurston, Democrat. Cambridge again went no license by a big majority. The non-partisans swept the city, elected the entire Board of Aldermen and nearly the entire Council. The day was marked by Democratic apathy, after one of the most strenuous campaigns fights for the mayoralty nomination that the city has known, when Mayor Thurston and James F. Aylward ran almost side and side, their contest requiring a recount, an appeal to the Supreme Court and finally the deciding vote cast by the City Committee.

"Was People's Candidate."

"I promised the Municipal Ownership League that I should give this subject my best study. This is the result of such consideration, continued Mayor-elect Wardwell, "I was the people's candidate. This was a citizens' victory. I shall be a people's Mayor. I shall be the tool of no boss, and no clique of bosses. No ring will control Mayor Wardwell.

"In every department of city work I am in favor of civil service. I am also in favor of giving the preference to Cambridge labor every time, particularly just now, on the pipe line. To the Wardwell there will be no Mayor's representative, with a salary of $5 a day for looking pleasant.

"You understand, of course, that with regard to municipal ownership in Cambridge the law requires that the city government must first vote in favor of it two years in succession. Then comes a referendum to the people.

'Cant' Ride Two Horses.

"Concerning my late opponent, Mayor Thurston, I have no comment to make, other than that it is still impossible for a man to ride two horses headed in different directions."

The reference of the Mayor-elect to the Mayor was echoed by Augustus Sawyer, president of the Cambridge Municipal Ownership League, who said to the BOSTON AMERICAN today that Mr. Thurston's condemnation by the League was due to the fact that Mr. Thurston had "straddled" on the question. "Cambridge Democracy," Mr. Sawyer said, "was forced into a new kind of politics this year, with the result that between 2,000 and 3,000 voters remained away from the polls."

John Allen had the highest vote for alderman, and the ten other non-partisans elected in the order of their votes are: Oliver D. Clary, George Stephens, H. O. Howard, Russell D. Crane, Joseph H. Beale, M. F. Blanchard, H. A. Penniman, Charles H. Lake, A. H. Henderson and George F. Dow. Dow had 2,583 votes to Jeremiah F. Cerkery, Democrat, the twelfth man and who was not elected, had 2,554 votes.

For Common Council the Non-Partisans made their gain of one man in Ward 4, where Thomas F. Jones defeated Councilman Norton. The Councilmen elected are: Ward 1, O'Connell and Sullivan; Ward 2, Mullen and Ryan; Ward 3, Hurley and Murphy; Ward 4, Dodge and Jones; Ward 5, Chamberlain and Higgins; Ward 6, Lincoln and Wiseman; Ward 7, Dunn and Lavigne; Ward 8, Bonno and Bolster; Ward 9, Moreland and Stetson; Ward 10, Conant and Hunter; Ward 11, Casey and Guilty.

TO EXTEND ST. PAUL TO THE COAST

In line with the general railroad prosperity and development throughout the country comes the announcement, of interest to Eastern railroad men, of the extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad to the Pacific Coast. Contracts for construction have been let, and it is expected the entire work will be completed by January, 1909.

Large agricultural tracts in South Dakota and Montana and agricultural and lumber regions in Washington State will be opened by the extension.

The new line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul now extends from Gresham, S. D., in a northwesterly direction to Ferry, Mont., following the Grand Canyon River to Forsyth, thence to Musselshell River to Lombard, Mont., thence paralleling the Northern Pacific at Rosalia, Wash., and at Lind, Wash., again paralleling the Northern Pacific from Ellensburg, Wash., practically all the way to Seattle and Tacoma.

DR. M'CARTHY, HURT, HEARS HE IS TO BE MAYOR

For the first time since his runaway accident of yesterday Dr. Charles D. McCarthy was able to comprehend today that he was yesterday elected Mayor of Malden over his Republican rival, the present Mayor, Charles O. Brown. Dr. McCarthy was the Independent candidate.

While making his professional rounds yesterday and receiving the wishes of his supporters for success, Dr. McCarthy was badly hurt. His horse bolted on Garden street and tried to jump the electric car sleigh over a two-foot brook in an adjoining meadow.

Picked Up Unconscious.

Dr. McCarthy landed head-first in the brook. He was picked up unconscious a few minutes later by people in the neighborhood and taken home.

Last night Mrs. McCarthy ventured to tell her husband he and been elected. The doctor seemed hardly to realize just what she was talking about. Early today, however, he was better and Mrs. McCarthy again told him he was Mayor-elect. The doctor smiled in spite of his pain and said to her:

"My dear, I prefer a campaign in politics to my present campaign against injury."

Then he asked her to read the morning papers to him, which she did until rest was necessary for the injured man.

Fatal Injury First Feared.

Dr. McCarthy's injuries have not been fully ascertained yet. It was first feared he was fatally hurt. This immediate fear is allayed now, but it will be a day or two before the exact extent of harm he received is known. He received an ugly gash on the head and multiple cuts and bruises.

Scores of inquiries by telephone and personal call are being received at the home, No. 104 Pleasant street. No one is allowed in the sick room, however, except Mrs. McCarthy, the nurse and the brother physician in charge.

HELD UP, LOST WATCH AND $32

James McCarthy, of No. 265 South street, Marlboro, to-day reported to Cambridge police headquarters that early Tuesday morning he was held up, robbed and badly beaten by three men in East Cambridge. He lost, he said, a valuable watch and $32 in cash.

McCarthy told the police that he spent Monday evening in Boston, where he made the acquaintance of three men, who agreed to show him the way to Vine street, East Cambridge, his destination. No sooner had they crossed the East Cambridge bridge than one of his companions hit him over the head, and then the three jumped on him.

WOMEN KNOW WHAT MEN LIKE

The woman shopper at the Christmas season has it easier than more man in the stores.

Most men smoke.

Hence, the woman shopper can fill her little list at the average modern cigar store.

In the United Cigar Stores, one will find everything that the smoker needs, at prices that suit the purse and in qualities that are nowhere surpassed.

A handsome box of cigars, made especially for Christmas; a beautiful case containing a pipe colored in keeping with the case, these and all other smokers' necessities may be found in any one of the multitude of United Cigar Stores in Boston.

The clerks of the United Cigar Stores are picked with as much regard to their personality as to their ability to build business. Politeness is exacted from one and all of them.

"No sale complete until the customer is satisfied," is, indeed, the motto of the system.

CLYMER WILL LIKELY JOIN HUB NATIONALS

BY A. H. C. MITCHELL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—While congratulating themselves over the acquirement of Pitcher Flaherty and Second Baseman Ritchey from the Pittsburg Club, President George B. Dovey and Manager Fred Tenney began a still hunt for more players to-day.

This morning it became almost a sure thing that Outfielder Clymer will also wear a Boston uniform next season. Last night he vehemently declared that he would not play in Boston under any circumstances, but as Fred Clarke said: "You wait till he cools off and I guess you will find him in line. He is a peculiar fellow and don't pay much half what he says.

Tenney After New Pitcher.

Tenney wants another pitcher and is hustling all along the line to-day to land one. He will not say whom he is after and no one can get a line on what moves he has in view. The Boston manager is in a very happy frame of mind, as he feels that he will have a much stronger club at the South End grounds next season than has represented Boston in many seasons.

Many persons have asked why Dreyfuss allowed such a good man as Ritchey to go to Boston. The Pittsburg magnate explains the matter by saying Ritchey had become a fixture of Pittsburg and wanted to make a change.

The case is similar to that of Steinfeldt, who had been playing many years for the Cincinnati club. He got in a rut and was batting and fielding poorly, but when he was transferred to Chicago he took a fine start and the season was about the best he ever put in on the diamond. He batted like a fiend and fielded in first-class style. It is expected that the change from Pittsburg to Boston will have a like effect on Ritchey. He is a grand ball player, as Boston fans will find out.

Next Year's Team.

Tenney's team for next year will be as follows and there will be further additions:

Pitchers, Young, Pfeffer, Lindaman, Dorner and Flaherty; catchers, Needham, Brown and O'Neil; infielders, Tenney, Ritchey, Brain and Bridwell; outfielders, Howard, Bates and Clymer; utility outfielder, Dowling; utility infielder, Strobel.

Dolan will also be used occasionally to pitch a few innings. He hasn't the pitching arm to last a full game, but has proved very effective for a few innings on occasions.

From the viewpoint of the "fans" and the player, the early Winter succession of the National League is the most interesting that has taken place for years. There is not so much interest in league politics as in the series of trades that were effected by managers and club owners. The players' market is a busy one and as the several leagues besides the one in session will go by way of Toledo opposing the reelection of Harry C. Pulliam as president of the National League has been predicted right along and the election takes place at the final session. The Boston, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Chicago and Brooklyn clubs have lined up in Pulliam's support.

President Brush of the New York club and Garry Herrmann, the Cincinnati magnate, have been credited with the statement that as a candidate Pulliam is distasteful and that he will not support Pulliam unless they vote for him.

A conference was held yesterday in Indianapolis between Messrs. Soden and Conant, retiring owners of the Boston club has been arranged by a special committee and a big banquet at the Waldorf on the 20th is to night, the veteran club owners will be received by the new men with whom they have been associated for so many years. All of the baseball men in town will be present. Loving cups will be presented to the men in whose honor the banquet was given.

Batty to Play Second.

When the Pirates are playing at home he can live in his own hotel. Abbattichio will replace Ritchey at second base.

Ned Hanlon said he had not yet secured waivers on all clubs on Chief Johnson's release, and for that reason had not made Corcoran a proposition to manage the Baltimore club. Corcoran called on Hanlon yesterday afternoon. He may allow Bob Wicker to be transferred to Boston. Hanlon says there is absolutely no chance of Hugging coming here.

There was no slants of deals involving the New York club. McGraw saw many of his friends at his billiard room, but did not go on the Victoria. Late in the afternoon Roger Bresnahan, on his way to Toledo from a shooting trip down in Virginia, dropped in to see what was going on. Bresnahan's unexpected appearance gave rise to a rumor that he had come to protest against being traded to the Cincinnati club.

Jack Ryan, the former Brooklyn catcher, came here to arrange a deal which would take him to a National League club, only to discover that he had been sold outright by Columbus to the Buffalo club.

Ryan says that he was instructed to consult his own club and that he had agreed on a price to be paid for his release. It is believed that he could have signed with Boston, Cub or with an American League team, but it now appears that he will not be released to any club from Buffalo.

John Dunkle, the Brooklyn left-hander, who flitted to the Tri-State League, after pitching some game for the Dodgers last Spring, made his peace with Patsy Donovan and Charles Ebbets and will be reinstated by the National commission.

HARD ONE FOR DORCHESTER.

Next Friday night at Dorchester High team the Dorchester quintet will go up against one of the strongest teams in the State when the fast team of the Manager Hickey expects a hard game, but is confident of his team's ability.

YALE DENIES BREAK WITH HARVARD

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 12.—Walter Camp, Yale's leading athletic adviser, to-day stated that while he did not want to be quoted in the matter, he had heard nothing about a severance of athletic relations between Harvard and Yale. He intimated from his conversation that from his knowledge of the situation no such event was likely to take place, saying: "I know nothing about it."

He further said that so far as he was aware no serious discussion had taken place among Yale men regarding visionary plans for filling the vacancy caused by only a partial withdrawal from the Yale schedule by Harvard. Other alumni familiar with the athletic situation are of the general opinion that there is little foundation in fact for the statement that such a move is contemplated by any number of Harvard men.

When approached relative to the question-ing, Graduate Manager Moore said: "I have no serious discussion had taken place among Yale men regarding visionary plans for filling the vacancy caused by only a partial withdrawal from the Yale schedule by Harvard. Other alumni familiar with the athletic situation are of the general opinion that there is little foundation in fact for the statement that such a move is contemplated by any number of Harvard men.

When approached relative to the question-ing, Graduate Manager Moore said: "I have no knowledge of an approaching severance of athletic relations with Harvard and because of their lack of any such knowledge would not be quoted on the matter. The general impression that some cannot be said until after the new college year was perfectly satisfied that football was both safe and sane, and while minor reforms might still exist, they would in due time be eliminated. "I have no reason to believe that the Harvard graduate body are not of the same opinion and I have no reason for an absolute faith that they do hold that to be true."

FINE BOUT FOR FIGHT FANS IN CHELSEA

Fight fans anticipate a whirlwind fight when Matty Baldwin of Charlestown, and Tommy Murphy of New York clash in their fifteen round bout at the Lincoln A. C. this evening. There is widespread interest in this oft-postponed match and sports from all parts of New England will be at the ringside, while more than a hundred of Murphy's admirers are due here from New York late this afternoon.

Murphy got to town early this morning. He left New York last night on the Fall River boat accompanied by Johnny Oliver, his manager, and Danny Dunn, who is to meet Freddie O'Brien in the semi-final bout. Murphy is in the pink of condition. "I have every confidence that I will land the bacon," said Baldwin is a fast, tough way," said the Harlem boxer.

Baldwin reached this city from Detroit Hill and went immediately to the Chelsea club house where he now will weigh in at 2 o'clock. The weight called for is 130 pounds, but no bothered either of the boxers and neither one of them are expected to more the beam.

This is the fourth time that this pair has been matched. Three times almost on the eve of the date set for the battle Murphy who suffers from malaria had to abandon his end of the agreement. For a month past he has been training faithfully and says he was never in better condition.

The semi-final bout between Freddie O'Brien, the shifty Chelsea bantam, and Danny Dunn ought to produce some fast milling in the eight rounds that they are scheduled to go. Dunn is a powerful puncher, and the fans will be playing him to win from the Chelsea boxer.

The curtain raiser will be a bout of six rounds between Jack Farrell, the busky middleweight, and Jack Sellout will also box three rounds. Kingfish Dodo efforts, and for over an hour there was a series of sprints that kept the spectators in a fever of excitement.

In one of the most desperate sprints of the day Leon Georget, who with his brother Emil represent the French team, succeeded in catching his rivals napping this morning, and before they were aware of what was taking place the lanky Frenchman had lapped them.

Then, after cheer for the plucky rider broke from the throats of the 10,000 spectators who had lingered in the Garden until long after dawn.

Much to the disgust of the Frenchman, however, the officials of the race ruled that the lap did not count, owing to the fact that at the time of the spring Marfarland was on the race owing to a broken pedal. The Frenchman in his hair raising sprint, did not notice the red flag waving from the stand, denoting that he gained did not count. When he was informed that his work had been for nothing, the Frenchman's wrath knew no bounds. He angrily protested against the ruling of the officials, and for a time it looked as if he would not re-enter the race again. His brother, Emil, however, came upon the track at this junction and succeeded in pacifying his brother, who finally cooled down and allowed his trainer, Dave Coburn, to lead him to his quarters.

No Cops Allowed.

Police Commissioner Bingham, much to the surprise of the managers of the grind, issued orders that no policeman on duty was allowed to enter the garden. As a result of this unprecedented order hoodlums who remain in the garden started many riots throughout the Gardeo, much to the annoyance and discomfort of the crowd. Both Waithour and Bedell are doing their best to regain the lost lap, but so far have been unsuccessful.

Phony Money as a Tonic.

Money, apparently crisp, fresh and crackling bank notes were showered upon the leaders, Breton, Stol and Macfarland, by three richly gowned women who occupied a box on the Twenty-ninth street side of the Garden to-day. An hour earlier, before Breton had relieved Vanoni the latter was handed a yellow back by an enthusiastic admirer, a pretty little brunette, who has rarely been absent from her box on the north side of the garden since the race started.

The lines which sixty hours of hard riding had drawn in their faces relaxed and they almost hummed a tune as they continued the weary grind. Then Vanderstuyft relieved Stol, and a few moments later the fair occupants of the box left the garden. A little later the lines returned to the faces of the riders. The money that the women had been so generously handing out was phony—stage advertising money—and the "tonic" soured the sweet, sunny dispositions of the recipients.

TERRY MARTIN WELL AGAIN

Johnny McIlarde, manager of Terry Martin, has informed Miah Murray, matchmaker of the Lincoln A. C., that the Dane has entirely recovered from the accident, which occurred to him while training at Diamond Hill. Terry was driving his machine yesterday a physician examined him and reported that the Quincy boxer had fully recovered. He started in at once to prepare for his mill with Billy Rhodaine at Chelsea next Tuesday evening.

Frankie Burke of Newton and Al Bates of Cambridge will meet in the semi-final bout on the Chelsea card. The winner will go to the Merrimac Valley A. C. and Young Bridgeville will also box six rounds.

BURKE VS. BLACKBURN.

Sailor Burke, the Brooklyn boxer, and Jack Blackburn, the Lowell lightweight, will probably be matched in a few days to meet for Eddie Lenny.

Burke has been seeking the match for some time and the fact that Young Corcoran would take on the match was with the signing of the articles. Burke was seen at sporting man in Brooklyn to back him, and the men will probably meet at Chelsea before New Year's Day.

JAKE STAHL MAY GO TO DETROIT

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—American League baseball politics had its first taste of the annual Fall meeting here to-day. While every club in the circuit, including the world's champion White Sox, is looking for trades to strengthen up for the next pennant race, it is considered doubtful if any deals of importance will be considered at this meeting, except possibly those involving Collins and Jake Stahl.

The Cleveland and Detroit clubs are most open bidders for the former Washington manager, and with fairly even chances for getting him, according to the latest.

Manager Hamilton was in conference with President Navin and it is understood the wishes of Stahl himself will have considerable to do with the 1907 decision. It is possible to make advantageous deals with either Michigan or Ohio team for his services.

President Johnson said:

"Any one of the eight clubs would be willing to unload from $25,000 to $50,000 in a minute at this meeting to strengthen its team, but a bank roll cuts small figure in the talk of trades and only playing experience and excellent judgment has any temptation for those men to control the clubs."

In order to give the magnates plenty of time in which to discuss details, apparently President Johnson announced he expected the league meeting to extend through two days. This is something in the nature of an innovation for the American League.

The directors of the league assembled in President Johnson's office to-day to close up the affairs of last season and award the White Sox the pennant. Afterward the club owners went into session at the Annex for the purpose of electing directors and committees for the coming year and discussing plans for the 1907 campaign.

COMING YEAR TO BE THE BEST YET FOR AUTOISTS

By J. C. Kerrison.

Thomas B. Jeffery of Thomas B. Jeffery & Co., manufacturers of the Rambler, arrived in town yesterday, and will remain for a day or so as the guest of C. A. Gilmore, the local agent. Mr. Jeffery, in talking with the writer immediately on his arrival, expressed the opinion that the forthcoming year would prove one of the most successful in the history of the industry. Personally he was well pleased with the results of the recent show in New York. The small sales of Humbers at that exhibit exceeded the sales made at any previous exhibit either in New York or any other city and he was well satisfied with the results. Although once a betog decidedly opposed to an early show he admitted that the experience of last week proved the advisability of the same. He is now an earnest advocate of early shows and is not inclined to favor the holding of an outdoor show, such for instance as the time of the Vanderbilt. He believes that such a show would be too early for the roads and that what would prove further objectionable was the unsettled condition of November weather. Personally he was content with the results of a week ago, although of course he, like everyone else, would not object to doing twice the volume of business.

"Enough was seen at the show to assure the success of the automobile as still agoing on its career of conquest," said Mr. Jeffery, "that the demand for the vehicle of all sorts is increasing and that it is destined to be an important factor in what will of course produce some changes and advancement, but so far as I can see at the present time there is no reason to expect radical changes."

Alfred E. Robbins of the Harry Fosdick Company, is receiving congratulations of his friends, whose name is legion, upon the arrival of a daughter yesterday morning. Mother and child are doing well.

The fifth annual Florida Ormond-Daytona Beach tournament will be a more important affair than ever, and the tournament representative in New York during the Automobile Show. A number of owners of touring cars that are going to Florida is something immense. Quite a number of drivers fond of touring are now touring to the South, and many of them expect to make the entire journey by automobile to Ormond and Daytona. A party recently started from Minneapolis and will go by way of Tennessee to Jacksonville, where they may undertake the balance of the journey in the beach and the somewhat indifferent roads between Jacksonville and Dayton.

The new four cylinder Maxwell arrived in town yesterday and attracted no end of attention. This car is the replica of the one which won the Deming trophy, and which created such favorable comment and consideration at the New York show.

Probably the largest retail business at the recent show was done by the Ford, Maxwell, White, Reo and Wayne companies. From a monetary point of view the White Company probably did the largest business. Its entire stock was made on Saturday afternoon, December 1, five minutes after the show opened, to Arthur K. Wason, a son of General E. L. Watson, who ordered the car and runabout fitted with a rotatable seat, which attracted no small attention during show week.

GANS AND HERMAN HAVE WARM WORDY BATTLE

TONOPAH, Nev., Dec. 12.—The first display of ill-feeling between Joe Gans and Kid Herman took place in the private office of Manager Riley this morning, when the Kid and Herman, the pride of Chicago's ghetto mixed it in a tiff of words.

The meeting this morning was not the first between the two men who will try to beat each other to a pulp on New Year's day. Since the arrival of Gans there have been frequent meetings between the champion and Herman, but on these occasions all seemed to be serene. Everything appeared to be cordial between the fighters, but this was probably due to the fact that no mention was made of the coming bout.

To-day it was different. Herman dropped into the office while Gans was chatting with Manager Riley.

"Are you still looking?" asked the Kid, partly in joshing tones and partly in declining.

"You'd have to get to work or you won't stand a ghost a chance," added Herman, still addressing Gans.

Joe immediately became peeved at the remark, and replied:

"You couldn't lick my stamp," answered the Kid sharply.

"Put Joe on his ear, and he let drive. "I'll punch you to sleep on New Year's day," said Herman, still addressing Gans, after he had picked his chair around to face the Kid and remarked:

"You need not wait that long if you think you can," retorted the little Chicago fighter.

Manager Riley interposed, looked at the two friends cooled off the Baltimore fighter.

A peculiar clause of Pennsylvania's liquor laws is directly responsible for the latest shift to the Pittsburg club after he had turned down a tempting offer from the New York club. He owns a hotel at Latrobe, Pa., a few miles from Pittsburg. He has had no place within the Boston club last year, but operated this hostelry with considerable profit to himself.

Accordingly did not care to play any more at Boston; neither did he like New York, but he told the Pittsburg officials that he would play there. It seems that a law is one of the paying assets of his hotel, and that under the license laws of Pennsylvania the person who takes out the license must not be absent from the State more than three months at a time. "Abbey" thought that he could not play with the Boston or New York clubs and give the proper attention to the business, so he suggested the deal to Dreyfuss.

Beatrice Fairfax, While Sympathizing With Victims of Jealousy, Warns Women Who Want to Enjoy Life to

BEWARE THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER!

By Beatrice Fairfax

"Oul jealousy, that turnest love divine
To coyless dread, and makst the loving heart
With hateful thoughts to languish and to pine,
And feed itself with self-consuming smart;
Of all the passions in the mind thou vilest art.
—SPENSER.

THERE is no emotion that causes so much suffering as jealousy.

It has many phases, but none of them equal in intensity that aroused in a woman's heart by seeing the man she cares for turn his attentions to another woman.

No matter how near and dear to her the woman has been, her friendship cannot survive that test.

Jealousy is an uncontrollable emotion. Children and animals suffer from it as well as older people. I have seen a two-year-old baby desperately jealous over his new little sister. Every time his mother or nurse touched her his lip quivered pitifully.

Learn to Control It

A MEMBER of my family owned a bull terrier, of which he was very fond, and the animal returned the affection devotedly.

My cousin married and "Bose" was still the family pet until the baby arrived on the scene.

Then, of course, Bose had to take a back seat. He was so miserably unhappy and jealous of the baby that it was thought for a time that he would have to be sent away. Eventually he accepted the baby as a fixture and learned to love him as he did the rest of the family.

It's all very well to say you can control jealousy, but how about that jealous little two-year-old chap and the dog. They did not want to be jealous and brought no imagination to bear on the question. Their feeling was purely spontaneous.

Results of Jealousy

WITH an older person it may be controllable to a small extent, but I defy any woman, or man either, for that matter, to look on calmly while the person they love best shows signs of transferring the affections elsewhere.

It is a feeling that blinds one to everything else in the world, a feeling that makes you want to hurt the person whose love you would give most to hold. It brings out your worst qualities, makes you appear in your most unattractive light.

A woman does not object very strongly to a man being jealous on her account, but a man is soon bored by a woman's jealousy. It hampers him, ties him down too much, and robs him of much of his precious liberty.

Very often a jealous woman will help the very cause she is trying to defeat. By nagging and whining she will drive the man away from her and toward her rival, whose strongest card is the fact that she makes no demands.

I do not think it is possible to feel deep love without also experiencing jealousy, if sufficient cause arises.

It is perhaps possible to control the outward and visible signs of jealousy, but in that case the storm will rage all the more fiercely within.

Every one should have the deepest sympathy with and comprehension for jealousy, for almost every one at some time or other suffers from its lashing sting.

A Jealous Woman Often Helps the Very Cause She Is Trying to Defeat, and Drives a Man Toward Her Rival

HANDY THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT

A BAG of hot salt relieves neuralgia, times causes the enamel of the teeth to crack, and therefore it is better avoided.

To avoid fatigue when sewing change your position frequently.

A cup of hot water sipped before a meal will relieve nausea and dyspepsia.

A glass of hot lemonade taken on going to bed will often break up a cold.

A half-teaspoonful of carbonate of soda dissolved in water will often cure a sick headache.

Tough meat can be made tender by laying it a few minutes in vinegar water before it is cooked.

To remove the odor of onions from your breath eat a little parsley dipped in vinegar, or drink a cup of strong coffee.

Tooth powder containing camphor sometimes causes the enamel of the teeth to since the cracking of the enamel means the first stage in the decay of the teeth.

Before cutting them or damask be sure to draw a thread, for otherwise, no matter how straight it may fold, it will probably only look so until it is washed. If cut by the thread you may be sure of its washing straight.

To clean rusty irons have a little salt and a little beeswax tied up separately in a bit of cloth, and rub the iron first with the one containing salt, then with the beeswax. This should be done each time the irons are heated for use, and the ironing will be better and more quickly done in consequence.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

BETTER LET HIM GO

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I know a young man for the last two years, but have only kept company for the last eight months. He received a letter from his mother not to forget his company for the future. He states that there is no one on earth to blame but himself. I know he thinks a good deal of me, and so do him and his family, and his family thinks a good deal of me, and go to their house often. What would you advise me to do—write or speak to him—to find out the reason he acts in that way?

I DO not think you have much choice, but to give him up—he evidently wishes to be released. Do not go to his house any more; it would look as though you were running after him. He is treating you very slightly in giving no explanation of his behavior.

A POSSIBLE REASON

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man broken-hearted because my girl I love has thrown me down, this making the second time. The reason she gives is because I smoke, and still another reason which she will not explain. I have tried to make her happy, but it all was in vain. I keep my manners a-going and am a perfect Beau Brummel, and while there I met two young ladies, and they are chatting with them at different times while courting the young lady, and she has noticed it.

H. F. M.

POSSIBLY the other reason is that she objects to your paying attention to other girls while courting her; girls do not care for that kind of courtship, you know. Perhaps if you call and explain matters she will relent. As to your smoking, that is a matter to settle between yourselves, but I should hardly think it sufficient reason for breaking the friendship.

A CHOICE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man and am engaged to a young lady. I have known her for other three years, and I think that I have grown to love her very dearly. The only fault I can find with her is she will never go to the theatre with me. She has never been to see a show in all her life. When I take her sister she objects, so what am I going to do?

P. B.

I DO not see what you can do except choose between your sweetheart and the theatre. If she objects to going to the theatre you probably would find it hard work to induce her to change her mind. However, if she won't go herself, she should not object to your going with her sister. If you love her well enough to give up the theatre, all right; if you love the theatre best, you had better give the girl up.

French Knots

TO make French knots fasten the thread at the back of the material and bring the needle up at the very place where the knot is required on the outside. Hold the thread up rather tightly, secure it with the thumb and finger of the left hand, twist the thread round the needle two or three times, taking it as near the surface of the work as can be; then turn the needle downward so as to bring it back through the material, a thread or two beyond the point at which it came out, and support the thread till the last possible moment, while the thread is being drawn through the twists. The knot then stands out like a bead, the size depending on the number of times the thread has been coiled round the needle.

Prize of $2 Awarded Every Day for Best Letter to Santa Claus

BOYS and girls, do you want to help Santa Claus?

You know how busy he is reading all the letters that come to him at this time of year. Well, he wants you to stop sending them to the BOSTON AMERICAN office.

He wants you to address them to Santa Claus, P. O. Box 227, Boston, Mass. He will get them more promptly and can read them more easily.

Here is your chance to help him. So be careful to address your letters right. He will read them quicker, and in that way you gain, too.

Many splendid letters have already been received, but there is room for improvement in many others that have come. Don't write your letters on both sides of the paper; Santa Claus has no time to be turning letters over these days.

When you write to Santa Claus, tell him what you want, write it plainly and as well as ever you can, and write only on one side of the paper. Don't forget to put your address on the letter. How is Santa to know where you live? He knows a lot, but not that so many children are wanting things if you want a sled or doll why tell the jolly old elf where to send it. That's the way.

Just think of this! A prize of $2 will be given for the best letter every day, written by either boy or girl. To-day's prize winner is to be announced to-morrow.

This is a great chance. You are to write to Santa Claus, telling him what you want for Christmas, or what you want to give mamma and papa, grandma, grandpa, brother, sister and the baby.

Now, when you write make your letter short, well written and clean and neat. Be sure and give your name and address and write on one side only of the paper. Address your letter to Santa Claus, P. O. Box 227, Boston, Mass.

Your little friend,

HELEN DUFFY.
No. 16 Austin street, Cambridge.

FURS FOR MAMMA

DEAR SANTA CLAUS:

I saw the piece in the BOSTON AMERICAN about children writing letters to you. I would like for papa a new coat, for mamma a new fur, for my sister who is ten years old, a doll, for my brother who is six years old a sled, for my brother who is eight also a sled, for myself I would like a sled, a doll and lunch for her hats, for my brother who is fifteen years old a pair of skates and behind the sled.

Squinting is often due to a baby looking fixedly at near objects.

The muscles of the eyes in infancy are not sufficiently developed to endure a long strain, and the eyes turn inward.

This may become a fixed habit, but in most cases, as the eye muscles become stronger, it will disappear.

To stop a child squinting it is a good plan to gently press the hand downward over the nose and eyes.

Morning Exercises

Exercises before breakfast are splendid for children. A child should not be given a good "first thing" when he wakes up, but he should be encouraged to tumble about, kick and roll over to his heart's content. This insures the digestion of any food left in the stomach from the last meal before getting a fresh allowance.

The digestive organs also are better able to tackle their work when the child is fully awake and hungry.

Home life is the school in which permanent impressions are made.

Don't criticise your friends unkindly in the hearing of your children.

Always fulfil promises if at all possible.

Be prudent in giving money; little is better than too much.

When finding fault don't raise your voice; the example is bad.

Don't punish by causing fear.

Direct the children's attentions to the bright side of life.

Be careful not to exaggerate when relating any incident, as example is more powerful than precept.

Building bricks is excellent education and exercise for children.

It teaches them to "develop their "muscle sense"—that is, to determine the relative weights and sizes of things.

Both hands have a chance of education in alternately building, and boy or girl who has a degree of ambidexterity will find it useful in later life.

Christening Presents

The silver mug, the knife, fork and spoon, or the porridge bowl, are becoming quite out of date as gifts to be presented to baby when he is christened.

The function itself now often approaches in elaborateness that of a fashionable wedding, and instead of the homely gifts of other days offered ladies are often frequently presented with quite splendid pieces of jewelry on this occasion.

The girl baby's collection of pearls not seldom now begins on the day of her christening.

It has been overdone until it has become an affliction and a nuisance that everybody would be glad to see abolished if only anybody had the courage to start a reform.

If some broke soul would organize a No Christmas Gift League, he could enroll three-fourths of the entire population of the country in it between now and the twenty-fifth day of December. People would simply fall over each other to join it.

No Duty Gifts

If you do not know any one well enough to be able to make him or her a present with your eyes but; if you do not care enough for any one to know what his or her taste is, or to have remembered some whim or fancy that you can gratify by a little gift at Christmas time, you certainly have no call to make such a one a present. Your gift is an impertinence, and the only thing that could justify it is lacking.

Nothing save the absolute poverty and necessity of the person to whom you give can justify a duty gift, and no if you have to give two thoughts to the selection of a present for a friend who is above the need of charity, give one more thought and keep your money for a worthier object.

As for home-made Christmas presents, unless you had the sense to make them last August, and to construct some useful article of wearing apparel, which is ever the most acceptable of gifts, cut them out unless you desire to add a doctor's bill to your Christmas expenses.

The abominations of crocheted and knitted and hand-daubed celluloid and tinsel and bric-a-brac that gather dust, and that have no conceivable use to man or beast, are appropriate gifts for only those against whom you cherish an undying grudge and hatred.

Count the Cost

Yet there are tens of thousands of foolish women at this very minute working themselves to death gilding tomato cans and stuffing pincushions with brickbats and committing other crimes against good sense, good taste and friendship in the name of the Christmas gift.

Think, beloved, have the courage not to give if you cannot afford it. Don't ruin your own Christmas by inspiring bills that will make a pall over you.

Remember those friendship is worth having would far rather have just a fine of good will and good wishes from you than to see you strain every nerve to give thing that they know that you must go out and be hungry to get for while those who value friendship by the amount of revenue they can collect from it are not worth buying.

Remember that there are many other people in the same position that you are and who would gladly be relieved of the burden of swapping presents at Christmas if they could.

You have no idea how grateful people can be for the gift you never send. Try it.

Good Things for Mothers to Know

Care of the Teeth

DO you know that camphor should never be used in tooth powder? It makes the teeth white for the time, but it renders the enamel brittle, so that sooner or later it will crack. The most popular tooth powder in the world is simple precipitated chalk, because this mixture has no injurious effect on the mouth, which tend to make the teeth decay. If the milk be kept in a wide-mouthed, glass-stoppered bottle it can be pleasantly perfumed by pouring upon it a little eau-de-cologne or lavender water.

The Sozodont way is the way to begin, and the way to end—so far as tooth care is concerned.

Your teeth should not be experimented on.

You should give them the best care possible, and Sozodont is the best possible thing to give them—the more the better. Sozodont will keep good teeth good, and make bad teeth better.

Sozodont is made in three forms: liquid, powder and paste. Sozodont is sold everywhere.

MOODY'S HOUSE RECORD UNDER SENATE PROBE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The record of W. H. Moody, nominated to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, when he was a member of the House is being investigated to-day by the Senate because of renewed inquiries by Democratic Senators. A vote on the nomination will be taken in executive session.

Senators Carmack and Culberson commented upon a story that Mr. Moody, as a member of the House, had been active in trying to have a bill they would reduce the representation of the Southern States. Mr. Culberson said there were several matters which might affect the present Attorney-General's fitness for a place on the Supreme Court bench that the Democratic Senators desired to inquire into.

He said he did not think opposition would be insisted upon, but that Moody should be permitted to go over until the desire of the minority for certain information could be satisfied.

No attempt was made to-day to confirm the nomination of Charles J. Bonaparte to be Attorney-General, as that nomination depends upon the confirmation of Mr. Moody in order to provide the vacant Attorney-Generalship.

Does Boston Want Another Elevated Road?

Will the Destruction of West End Values Make Us Bigger or Better or Busier?

The city of Boston is making one more stand against the devastating elevated structure proposed in the West End.

The Boston Elevated Railway is now before the Board of Railroad Commissioners for the approval of a route never contemplated by the Legislature when it passed the Cambridge subway act, to which this unhappy scheme of extending the elevated structure over another part of territory in Boston was attached as a rider.

The act which visited upon one section of Boston the destructive plague of an elevated to scale down real estate values, to shut out the sun from the homes of the poor, already too little lighted, to destroy their privacy, their rest and their quiet, was one of the iniquities of the last Legislature.

It was an inexcusable step backwards in the progress of our rapid transit problem in large cities. No other city which has had any experience with a subway would tolerate the extension of an elevated.

Recently in New York City the powerful railway company petitioned for leave to place a third rail upon their already existing elevated structure.

But New York had built its subway. That city had a short experience with a subway, and not another foot of elevated road was permitted to be built within the borders of the metropolis.

Boston was the pioneer American city in the construction of subways. Ten years ago the first subway relieved the intolerable congestion on Tremont street and shortened the running time many minutes. The Boston Elevated Railway was forced to pay such a rent for it that in a few years more Boston will have received in rent enough to repay the entire cost of building it.

By that subway no real estate values were destroyed, the comfort and health of no community was injured. One glance at Tremont street and then another at any street where the elevated runs is enough. Boston wants no more elevated structures in her midst.

Both the Board of Aldermen and the City Council rejected this petition of the Elevated Railway by a UNANIMOUS VOTE, and are now protesting against it before the Railroad Commission.

This suggests the question why Mayor Fitzgerald's voice has not been heard in behalf of the city which he wants to make "bigger, better and busier."

He knows that this proposed route will so injure property values in the district in which it is built that the city will lose about thirty thousand dollars a year in income from taxes in that district.

Destruction of property values does not make Boston bigger or busier. Injury to the health and comfort of any of her citizens does not make her better.

This proposed elevated construction is either very bad for Boston or very good. It will make very great changes in a large section of Boston. Those changes will either be for her injury of her good. It is not an indifferent question of good and evil.

It is a question on which the chief magistrate of Boston should have an opinion, and a strong opinion. Mayor Fitzgerald has taken much interest in keeping Boston open for the sale of liquor until midnight. This appears to him to be so important to a better, bigger and busier Boston that he has taken great pains to make his opinion known.

He had also a strong opinion on the school committee question. Where is he on this great question?

The Mayor of Cambridge, the Mayor of Somerville and the Boards of Selectmen in the outlying towns are there in person or by representative, taking one side or the other. Committees from both branches of the City Council are there. But Mayor Fitzgerald is absent and his tongue is silent.

The Railroad Commissioners may do Boston a great service. It is to be hoped that this body will have sufficient independence and good sense to do it.

"Pantocracy" and the Politics of Utility

By Harry B. Metcalf

IN the present critical period in our industrial history, when the oppressive power of capitalism is manifested in political evils and in price extortions as never before, any earnest proposal of radical reform in prevailing systems becomes of real interest.

To define a political and social mechanism that would emancipate men from poverty and excessive toil, and create the ideal state by insuring to each individual the full reward of his labor, is a task whose magnitude is beyond the dreams of most publicists; yet it is just this that James MacKaye believes he has done in "The Politics of Utility," just published by Little, Brown & Co.

Mr. MacKaye analyzes conditions under the competitive system most interestingly, and in many directions most convincingly. He finds their logical finality to be a complete system of private monopoly, in which government control is a mere form.

Declaring that "if the nation does not own the monopolies the monopolies will own the government," he introduces his system under the term "Pantocracy," which is a modification of the Socialism, combining, he says, all the advantages of public monopoly with whatever, advantages the competitive system possesses.

In brief outline "Pantocracy" provides for the public ownership of the means of production, with retention of the ware system, but abolition of profit; organization of a system of distribution which shall keep supply and demand in proper adjustment; a national labor exchange, which shall regulate the supply of, and demand for, labor; an inspection system, which shall keep all products at a definite standard; reform in the application of labor to production; organization of invention; old age insurance and educational reform.

Without going into the details, which are worked out in many respects to final ends, it may be said that "Pantocracy" is well worth the examination of all who are interested in sociological and economic problems. Its construction shows great study and research, and an intimate knowledge, by the author, of problems as intricate and perplexing as they are important.

The impracticability of applying some of Mr. MacKaye's theories in the upbuilding of a perfect state will, doubtless, loom large to the majority of minds, especially his suggestion to prohibit all immigration, at least for ten years, and his alternative methods of taking over, by the State, of all private industrial property.

Little Editorials from the People

ARE CONVICTS PERSECUTED?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I read with melancholy interest Dr. Garvin's recent letter in the BOSTON AMERICAN. Except for personal interviews which I have had with criminals, say, only a few days ago, I would hesitate to believe that there exists in our modern cities a settled practice to persecute convicts who have paid the penalty (and more) of crime.

Only Saturday I read in the Transcript an interview with an expounder of law in New York who comments on the practice of police "bunding" of criminals as a fact perfectly understood to exist, but, I am glad to see, with just indignation.

I have traveled much in Europe, Asia, Africa, and in every State in this country, across South Dakota, moreover, I have been in Russia three different times, but never have I seen, or been able to learn of, the existence of such abominable persecution as would, I say again, be sufficiently inconceivable and unlikely as to have often seen and known of in this country.

We are forever bragging of our liberties, so much in fact that we are in no where as we have lost many of the which we, at one time, could boast.

WANTS MORE WINIFRED BLACK

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

May I, too, request that we oftener hear from Winifred Black? As one of your correspondents says, she gives us what we want to-day—truth and common sense—which is a combination rarely found.

Most women (and men) can write well to women or about women—and, oh, what tons and tons of trash is addressed to us—"working women" especially—give us mush, gruel and soft breakfast foods, when what we want is good, solid, substantial food that gives strength to brain and muscle.

I have nothing against breakfast foods—and gruel—they are good in their way—especially for children and invalids—but all women are not children, neither are they invalids, and I'll venture to add there are a few who are not imbeciles.

Winifred Black gives us just what we need; she hits us hard in the weakest places; she tells us the plain, unvarnished truth, and that's what we want, and we want a tremendous amount of it presented to us in the right way, in a common sense way.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

She Tells of the So-Called "Sensitiveness" Which Is Another Name for Selfishness

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

LONG ago some one suggested an important truth in remarking that sensitiveness was only one form of aggressive self-love, or words to that effect.

Yet every day we hear people refer to their own "sensitive natures" as if they were speaking of a great virtue.

There is, of course, a sensitiveness which means a refined appreciation of the beautiful things of life. To be stirred by the charms of nature, to respond to the vibrations of sunlight and winds and songs of birds, to feel the intensity of the full moon's rays, to hear the wonderful messages of the silence and to be conscious of the companionship of space—this is to be "sensitive" in the best sense.

Only Self-Conceit

BUT the majority of people who use that word attach an entirely different meaning to it. The very weakest and silliest forms of self-conceit and selfishness are called "sensitiveness," as well as the most wearing and ignoble phase of jealousy.

I have seen a young woman who was all life and mirth and sociability transformed into a sullen, silent monument of "sensitiveness" by the advent of other young women into her circle—others who were kind, agreeable and companionable, but for whom she felt a selfish and jealous resentment because they interfered with her supremacy.

She did not for one instant acknowledge the unpleasant truth herself. She believed she was really giving the right of way to others and proving her own "sensitiveness" by keeping in the background. On the contrary, she made herself painfully conspicuous by her altered demeanor and her silence and destroyed the comfort of all who came near her.

Unreasonable Jealousy

I HAVE seen a "sensitive" husband render home unbearable because his wife enjoyed the visit of a relative or a school girl companion. And I have seen a wife equally "sensitive" because her husband was courteous to other women of his family.

No husband who is thoughtless and negligent of his wife's feelings and happiness and no tactless and indifferent wife need quote these remarks to justify unkind conduct.

There are men and women who forget that love between husband and wife should be like the flame in some holy temple, which is never allowed to go out.

There are men who bestow all their courtesy on the outside world and women who bestow their affection on their relatives, leaving the husband lonely and neglected.

It is natural that the partners of such men and women should be really "sensitive" to their sorrow; but the fact remains that most of the sensitiveness we hear about comes from self-love, selfishness, jealousy and a tendency to petty tyranny.

Amazing and Amusing

IT is amazing and amusing to think of the number of people in the world who are miracles of selfishness, yet who really believe themselves to possess most unselfish natures.

Unselfishness does not consist in merely doing one's duty in a material way toward a loved one; it consists in being reasonable, considerate and sensible as well.

I have seen a mother work like a servant for her children and deny herself physical comforts to give them luxuries, yet at the same time mar their pleasure, humiliate their pride by her jealousy of their friends and the continual obtrusiveness of what she called her "sensitive" nature. This is not the unselfishness which makes the home life beautiful. It is the sensitiveness that means self-love.

burglars is bad men wich make good money talking things wich sumbody else hasent paid for.

they are of many kinds, such as pourch climbers, hold up men, yegg men, etc., when they git too fat to clime pourches they git a office on Wall street & start a trust.

the first burglar i know about was Eve, she swiped a apple wich was on a tree called the tree of Knowlege, then she saw Adam coming & sed this husband of mine looks like a man that wud talk stealen property, here, old chap, have one on me, & Adam ate the apple but he wasent arrested beekaus there wasent any policemen those days beekaus there was no plais to pin a star on.

the next burglar was Romeo, he climed a pourch where Juliet lived & almost stole her but not quite beekaus he dident have enuff munny to start housekeeping.

As Mister Shakespeer once sed a lady sed:

Who steels my purse steels trash
Beekaus I dont carry my munny thare.
I have another plais to carry it,
But she who steels my good naim is a burglar.
